

Wild Oats Restaurant, Chicken Fried Steak. Photo Credit Claudio Casabarian.

Wild Oats opened an indoor/outdoor outpost in the Heights as part of the Houston Farmer's Market multi-million dollar renovation. Chef Nick Venado's menu is full of everything that makes Texas great - Mexican, Tex-Mex, Southern and German flavors are all represented. Texas cocktails and mouth-watering desserts are also part of the casual dining experience. wildoatshouston.com

Warehouse 72, Charred Octopus. Photo Credit Julie Soefer.

When Houston favorite Spaghetti Warehouse flooded in Hurricane Harvey they were determined to make it back into the Houston food scene. In 2019, the restaurant reopened with a new name and a whole new outlook. With Executive Chef Jaime Salazar at the helm, Warehouse 72, located in the Marq-E Entertainment Center, is an upscale restaurant with plush banquets, beautiful decor and fantastic large-scale art. House-made mozzarella, handcrafted pizzas, Grilled Gulf Oysters and Mediterranean Grilled Octopus are just a few of the menu highlights. Diners can also enjoy the resta-

El Venado, one of Houston's newest bars, offers traditional Mexican cocktails focusing on tequila and mezcal. Guests can enjoy various street-style tacos, tostados, nachos, sopes and other delicious food from the Mexican